

Peach State Nursing Agency

Dependable and compassionate care-that is what everyone wants for their loved ones. In 1990, Cheryl McNair Perlowin-a Milledgeville native-recognized a need for affordable, quality home care in the community. With a deep passion for providing support to those in need, Perlowin founded Peach State Nursing Agency.

Although Perlowin passed away from cancer in 2005, Peach State remains a family business with her daughter Robin Becker at the helm as company president. “The agency remains committed to the same principles that were established in the beginning,” said Becker. “We maintain a simple mission to deliver the most compassionate, dependable, quality service in the market and to ensure the satisfaction of each client every day.”

Serving in two capacities, in-home and supplemental staffing to health care facilities, Peach State delivers a range of care to clients throughout the state of Georgia. Highly skilled nurses and certified nursing assistants provide medical and non-medical services and are fully licensed, trained, and certified.

If given a choice, most people would stay in their own homes for as long as their health allowed. Peach State makes this possible by focusing on the individual person and developing a plan of care that is tailored to meet each client’s needs.

This attention to detail is also carried over to residential health care facilities. Peach State’s supplemental staffing services gives that extra-personal touch that only comes with one-on-one care. “We want to make the transition to a new lifestyle as simple and smooth as possible for the client and their family,” said Becker.

After 25 years, Peach State remains a family business with deep roots in the community. Becker adds, “By providing the best care for our clients each and every day, we all succeed in carrying out my mom’s legacy.”
